WHAT IS SUSTAINABLE PRODUCT SALES?

Sustainable Product Sales (SPS) develops growth strategies for social and environmental impact businesses.

The Problem

Sales growth is the goal of any business, but founders and CEOs have their hands full managing day-to-day operations. To make things more complicated, positioning social and environmental impact requires a specialized approach.

How do founders align their operational capacity with sales outreach and marketing efforts to sustainably grow revenue while delivering the best customer experience and impact possible? And how will they find the time to execute a growth strategy?

The SPS 4-Step Growth Process

The SPS Solution

Sales growth is not a mystery, it's an internal and external process guided by a holistic, agile strategy that is right for your business. Using the 4-Step SPS Growth Process, we assess your company and identify areas for growth, build a growth strategy that considers your current capacity, and nurture leads by leveraging the intelligent use of technology and building capacity.

Completing the 4-Step SPS Growth Process results in +20% to 100% in ARR

Why Sustainability Matters

Sustainability at SPS means both sustaining sales and driving measurable change that supports people and the planet. Here's why impact measurement is relevant to every business:

- As a business grows, so does its impact on its environment.
- Meet the growing demand for transparency and corporate responsibility.
- As sustainability experts, we help clients avoid greenwashing.
- Building supplier, customer & stakeholder relationships = resilient business

What Our Clients Are Saying

"Our company engaged Brianna at Sustainable Product Sales for several months to help us devise and implement a sales process and strategy. Working with Brianna helped us refine a nebulous sales approach into a specific actionable plan. Her consulting style is very collaborative, innovative, and grounded in results. She clearly has significant experience in sales and her familiarity with the sustainability industry is remarkable.

I would highly recommend Brianna and SPS to anyone looking to grow their business to the next level of maturity."
